This represents some aspects of medico legal experience of the author during the past five years. The subject of the medico-legal autopsy has been discussed in the first chapter, which included also a discussion of procedures and different techniques. Cases of homicides, suicides and accidents, natural causes were also discussed, sudden infant death syndrome, ischemic heart disease. In every chapter a case history has been given followed by detailed autopsy report (in the last case a clinical examination report) including the results of any applicable laboratory investigation or highly specialized techniques. The topic appropriate to the presented case was then discussed in an elaborate manner with a review of the literature dealing with that topic.
